Bluetooth Wearable Gesture Control
(for smartphone control)

Gesture recognition enables humans to communicate with the machine (HMI) and interact naturally without any mechanical devices. Muscle activity-based gesture control device allows users to wirelessly control smartphones and other devices using their fingers and hands alone.