

Light Photonics System- Optical Communication and Multiple Applications

Abstract: Photonics involves the creation, use, and modification of light. Photonics has a wide range of applications, including communication, health, agriculture, industry and manufacturing. The goal of this project is to build a table-top photonic system using readily available components such as light sources, lenses, mirrors and fibers.